Mikoyan's Plane Diverted; Demonstrators Thwarted

Fog Closes In, Bars Landing At Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An airliner bringing Anastas Mikoyan from San Francisco landed inland at nearby Burbank Sunday after fog kept it from a scheduled landing at International Airport.

The plane, originally scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles at 5:11 p.m., PST, touched ground at 5:15 p.m.

The Soviet first deputy premier flew to Los Angeles after a 22-hour San Francisco visit which began with an egg throwing demonstration and ended with a governor's apology.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown apologized for Saturday's demonstration by Iron Curtain country refugees, mostly Hungarians.

Eggs, Slingshot Seized

A crowd of several hundred had gathered in front of the Los Angeles Airport administration building. High fences and a police guard made it impossible for any of them to enter the landing area.

Detectives, threading through the crowd, picked up half a dozen would-be demonstrators.

Police seized eggs, a slingshot, placards and a sack full of rubber skull masks.

Officers questioned the men and then released them.

All of the men picked up identified themselves as former Hungarian Freedom Fighters.

The crowd was orderly and apparently was made up mostly of the curious.

Mikoyan's departure from San Francisco at 2:45 p.m. PST was in quiet contrast with the fist-shaking, name-calling outburst of 200 anti-Communists which marked his arrival Saturday there from Chicago.

Exchange Of Invitations

A cordon of police and security officers kept onlookers at a distance Sunday to forestall any repetition while the advocate of increased trade, waving his hat, walked up to the airplane.

Before he left, Mikoyan was received by Gov. Brown.

The Soviet first deputy premier was to meet with Mikoyan on his trade promotion tour, told Mikoyan the airport demonstration was "not typically Californian" and that he regretted it.

He extended an invitation to Mikoyan to come back to California for the winter Olympics in 1960. Mikoyan invited Brown to visit the Soviet Union. The governor said he would like to do that.

Green's Trial Opens Today

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Congressman William J. Green Jr. and six other defendants go on trial here Monday on conspiracy charges in the construction of the 23 million dollar Army Signal Corps depot at Tobyhanna, Pa.

Federal Judge Frederick V. Follmer will preside at the long-delayed trial at which the prosecution will contend the defendants conspired to defraud the federal government in the construction of the huge depot.

In addition to Green, the defendants are John B. Gilboy Jr., an inspector and planner of the depot who now lives in Philadelphia; former Congressman Herbert J. McGlinchey of Philadelphia; and contractors Joseph R. Ruff of Hartford, Conn., Robert W. Brown of Merchantville, N.J., and John P. Kemmel, Philadelphia.

Airline, Strike Over, Resumes Partial Service

NEW YORK (AP)—American Airlines resumed flight operations on a curtailed basis Sunday after settlement of a 22-day strike by its pilots.

The first American Airlines plane to take off since the walkout began Dec. 19 left LaGuardia Field for Fort Worth, Tex., at dawn.

The line scheduled 35 Sunday flights out of the New York City area—25 from LaGuardia Field, 8 from Idlewild Airport, and 2 from Newark, N.J., Airport. This is one-third the usual number of Sunday flights.

Full service on the airline's 77-city network was scheduled to be restored by Tuesday.

American, first in the United States in number of passenger miles flown, estimated its losses during the strike at more than 18 million dollars. Including revenue and loss by suppliers and employees of both, the strike cost an estimated 33 millions.

The airline began recalling its 20,000 furloughed workers Friday when it was announced the dispute was settled in principle.

Full details of the contract were not released, but company spokesmen said it included these items: 1. Pilots will get paid for a minimum of five hours flying when they are on duty, even if they are not used that long.

2. Jet crews will include three pilots and a flight engineer. This is one more pilot than the piston planes carry. The extra pilot will get a minimum of 650 a month.

Embassy Havens

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The presidential palace said Sunday 76 former officials of the Batista regime have taken refuge in Latin-American embassies here.

Two Important Space Exploration Contracts Will Be Awarded Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two contracts of major importance to space exploration are expected to be awarded soon—one this week, the other within a few months.

The contract to be negotiated first will be for the capsule in which a passenger ultimately will ride in the nation's first manned satellite. This is designated Project Mercury.

Family Of Seven Killed By Flames

CINCINNATI (AP)—A family of seven was killed early Sunday when an oil stove exploded and set fire to their frame - stucco home in nearby Lincoln Heights.

Killed were Horace Bradshaw, 35; his wife, Emma, 36, and their five children, James, 9; Michael, 8; Mary Margaret, 5; Horace Jr., 3, and Deva, 2.

Firemen said the family apparently was killed almost immediately after the explosion touched off the fire at 2:55 a.m., EST.

Former Film Actress Slain By Sex Sadist

CARMEL, Calif. (AP)—Sheriff's officers hunted Sunday for a sex sadist suspected in the steak knife slaying of a 57-year-old woman whose scrapbooks listed her as a film actress of silent screen days.

The bloody, mutilated body of Mrs. Clara Mohr was found Saturday in her fashionable suburban home. On one wall was a picture of Walter Pidgeon signed "To my dear Claire." Scrapbooks showed clippings of "Claire Del Mar" - a picture of her with Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer"; an account of her dancing the tango with Rudolph Valentino in "The Four Horsemen."

She was clad only in a red bathrobe. Her nightgown had been ripped off and tossed aside. She had been mutilated.

Sheriff's Capt. Darel Smith said she apparently was hit on the head outside her home with a heavy instrument, then carried into the bedroom.

Ike, Nixon Plan Public Appeals For Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon have agreed on an all-out appeal to the public over the heads of the top-heavy Democratic Congress to push most of the administration program during the next two years.

As part of this drive, it was disclosed Sunday, Eisenhower plans a series of television-radio appeals on such key issues as the cost of living, adequacy of space and defense programs, and similar controversies.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said last week that Eisenhower would seek public support for his program in every way possible. Hagerty said then it was possible that television might be employed although no decision on this point had been made.

Nixon, regarded by many now as a front runner for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, was reported to have rejected proposals of some boosters that he step in and try to take over a revitalizing of the GOP after its sharp setback in the November elections.

Instead, Nixon and all Eisenhower Cabinet members have agreed to slug it out down the line for the President's balanced budget and for other proposals expected to get a rough going over in the Democratic Congress.

Ike Back In Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower returned to the White House Sunday from a leisurely weekend at his Camp David retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

The President, accompanied by his wife, motored back to the capital.

Two Trucks, Bus, 15 Cars Crash In Fog

Two Or More Die, Eight Injured In California Pileup

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Two butane truck-trailers, a bus and about 15 cars piled up in heavy fog Sunday. Two or more persons died in flames, and at least eight were hurt.

A northbound butane truck-trailer turning across U.S. 99 at an intersection was struck by a similar vehicle southbound, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The northbound trailer tipped over, blocking southbound lanes. The southbound trailer crashed into it.

Two cars plowed into the wreckage, one behind the other, bursting into flames that destroyed them and burned some occupants to death.

Oncoming cars in both directions began smashing together as drivers slowed to peer through the fog at the flaming disaster. "It was crash, crash, crash—one crash after another," said Patrolman William Payne.

Seeing the butane trucks crash, he had sped along the highway in both directions, tossing warning flares from his car.

Highway Blocked Four Hours

Capt. James Bryant, in charge of the highway patrol in Kern County, said two are known dead but there may be more.

The multiple smashups occurred about 8:45 a.m. on the main north-south artery, seven miles south of Bakersfield, oil well and cotton-growing center in south-central California.

Travel in both directions was blocked four hours.

Patrolman ordered occupants out of stalled cars and towed the smashed trucks into an alfalfa field in fear the butane cargo might explode. Much of it spilled on the highway. Butane is a liquid petroleum product used for heating and cooking and, with engine modifications, as a truck fuel.

High School Coach Killed

The highway patrol identified one of the dead as Manuel Grancha, coach of All Saints High School, Hayward, Northern California.

He was driving a car carrying several high school basketball players. The car struck a refrigerator truck stopped by the butane trucks' crash and was struck from behind by another auto, patrolmen said.

One high school basketball player, Charles Joseph, 15, Hayward, got out of Grancha's car, burned badly, and was taken to Kern County General Hospital in serious condition.

Another, Larry Apodaca, 14, Hayward, was taken there in critical condition.

New Heart-Lung Machine Hailed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A machine to serve as human heart and lungs during surgery was described Sunday as an improvement over previous devices used for the purpose.

It was developed by volunteer groups of physicians and surgeons and aircraft engineers.

Dr. Douglas G. Davidson, chosen by the county medical society to report on its first use in open heart surgery, said: "I feel definitely that in this case the early recovery of the patient is due to the fact that our machine comes closer to duplicating the action of the human heart than any other heart-lung machine we have seen."

The machine draws blood from the patient's veins into an artificial lung, in which its load of carbon dioxide is replaced by life-supporting oxygen, and pumps it back into the arteries—thus combining functions of heart and lungs.

Cubans To Be Barred From Executions

MANZANILLO, Cuba (AP)—Rebel military authorities announced Sunday Cubans will be barred from witnessing the executions by firing squads of Batista supporters. But they'll be permitted to see the bodies afterward.

The decision was taken after a crowd of 3,000 attended the execution Saturday of six Batista supporters convicted of crimes by a military tribunal. The authorities said the public's presence did not conform "with our culture."

Thus far about 50 Batista supporters have been executed as criminals throughout Cuba. Nearly 3,000 are awaiting trial before revolutionary tribunals.

West-Russian German Parley Seen In Spring

Allied Counter-Terms Awaited

LONDON (AP)—London diplomats predicted Sunday the West will meet the Soviet Union some time this spring for talks on Germany—but will not limit negotiations to Soviet terms.

Moscow's terms were laid down Saturday in notes to 27 nations which participated in the war against Nazi Germany. They called for a conference in Prague or Warsaw within two months to sign a peace treaty that would leave Germany still divided.

In the background is the Soviet threat to hand over occupation powers in Berlin—along with control of Western supply lines—to the East German Communists if the West does not agree to make West Berlin an unarmed free city by May 27.

Diplomats in London said the Western powers probably would reply, after consultations among themselves, with a proposal for a foreign ministers' conference aimed at breaking the deadlock on German unification.

As the West sees it, Germany must be united under a freely elected government before a peace treaty is signed.

The Russian draft of a proposed treaty, circulated with Moscow's notes Saturday, provided that the treaty be signed by both East and West Germany. Unification—if it ever came—would be by negotiation between the two Germans, rather than through negotiations by outside powers, and would be in the form of a confederation.

Confederation would leave the Reds in power over 17 million East Germans and could be used to extend Communist influence in to West German affairs.

The West is determined not to buy this. But at the same time, it realizes German unification would automatically solve the Berlin question.

Diplomatic opinion was that neither Warsaw nor Prague would be acceptable to the West as a conference site. Shortage of hotel, office and housing space, as well as of communication lines, alone would rule out Warsaw as the site of a big international conference.

The West Berlin newspaper Der Kurier raised another objection.

The paper said the selection of Prague or Warsaw would give the Communists a chance to use their talents in planting microphones so that Western delegations would find it almost impossible to confer secretly.

U.S. Investors Receive Cuban Bid, Admonition

By The Associated Press
HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—American investors are invited by a revolutionary government official to bring their capital to Cuba but admonished not to leave their democratic ideals at home.

Rufio Lopez Fresquet, newly appointed Treasury minister, told reporters: "I am a proven supporter of the free enterprise system of private investment. I welcome United States and other foreign investors to Cuba. I welcome their capital and their know-how."

"But I want them to come only if they also bring their democratic ideals with them."

"I do not want men who consider that democracy is good only for the United States and who, in Latin America, prefer the easy, lucrative kind of business that is done with dictators."

Lopez Fresquet, whose wife Helen is American, is a golf-playing member of Havana's Cuban-American-Canadian community.

He was president of the government's Agricultural and Industrial Development Bank before fallen dictator Fulgencio Batista took over the government in a coup d'etat in 1952. For the next seven years he was a sharp critic of the Batista regime and was arrested several times for questioning.

The U.S.-backed multimillion-dollar gambling industry took fresh hope that the doors to Havana's fabulous casinos might reopen soon.

But the casino operators were aware that if this happens only foreigners will be permitted to roll the dice, pull the slot machine levers, or pursue other means of trying for a fast dollar.

The new provisional government and rebel chieftain Fidel Castro stood firm on their declarations that such gambling activity was ended for the Cuban people.

The casinos might get the green light as tourist attractions, however, and that would satisfy the operators. Most of the gambling volume and the big money play have come from U. S. and other tourists.

Saltonstall Storm Center Of New Senate GOP Row

WASHINGTON (AP)—Angry colleagues may move this week to strip Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) of his appointive power in a row over the chairmanship of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee.

Saltonstall, who remained publicly neutral when conservatives and liberals clashed over leadership posts, was represented as a reluctant name Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) as director of the campaign to elect GOP senators in 1960.

The Massachusetts senator was said to feel the choice of Goldwater, who has campaigned actively against organized labor's participating in politics, would be regarded as an affront to the unions and to party members who call themselves liberals, or progressives. As chairman of the Conference of All GOP Senators, Saltonstall has insisted publicly he has not made up his mind about a successor to Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel of Kansas as campaign chairman.

But conservatives who forced the election of Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois as floor leader over Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, the liberal candidate, were reported ready to take matters in their own hands.

The old line group already has drafted a resolution to be brought before the conference at a meeting this week directing that the choice of the campaign chairman be made on the recommendations of Republican senators who are running two years from now.

Plane Falls, Burns Near Rio Airport

Victims Include American Flying For German Line

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—A Lufthansa Super Constellation arriving from Europe and Africa crashed and burned on the marshy edge of Guanabara Bay Sunday in sight of the landing strip at Galeao International Airport. Twenty-nine passengers and seven crew members perished.

Three crew members escaped alive but with severe injuries. They were the only survivors.

The wingtip of the four-engine plane struck the mud as the American pilot tried to line up for a landing. The pilot, Capt. Wren McMains of Stamford, Conn., died at the controls. The copilot, Karl Frank, was blown clear. Stewardess Hilda Dehler and a steward staggered out badly injured.

"We could see the passengers at the windows banging for help and screaming as they tried to get out," fishermen at the scene reported.

Ashes And Wreckage

The plane crashed in the rain about two miles from the airport. Rescuers had to go a roundabout way, by muddy side roads, to reach the marshy spot. By the time they got there, nothing was left but ashes and wreckage, strewn over a wide area.

The three survivors were given emergency treatment at the scene, then taken to a hospital in Rio.

This was the German airline's first fatal crash since it began postwar operations in April 1955. South American service was opened in August 1956.

Because of a shortage of trained German pilots, Lufthansa uses many American fliers on its long-distance runs.

McMains, a 48-year-old native of Lebanon, Ind., was loaned to Lufthansa from Trans World Airlines in 1955 as a plane supervisor. He had been flying with TWA since 1941. He was the father of four children, aged 6 to 15, including a set of twins.

The plane's passenger list indicated none of the passengers was American. All gave addresses in Europe or South America.

Frogmen Called Out

One of the victims was Gary Levy of London, South American manager of Reuters News Agency and commercial telegraph bureau.

Also killed were Count and Countess Jaroslav Kottulinsky of Vienna, who were married in the Austrian capital on Dec. 7, 1957 in a ceremony attended by aristocrats from all over Europe.

Lufthansa said there were 30 passengers and 10 crew members aboard when the plane left Hamburg Saturday morning. It then flew the route to Frankfurt, Paris, Dakar and across the Atlantic and then was slated to go on to Buenos Aires and Santiago.

The Brazilian navy broadcast a call for frogmen to report for duty at the scene.

Twenty persons perished in a plane crash in Rio just 12 days ago. A twin-engine plane departing for Sao Paulo crashed into Guanabara Bay. It took frogmen a week to raise the plane and establish the final death toll.

Policeman Slain At End Of Chase

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 28-year-old policeman, veteran of six years on the force, was shot and fatally wounded Sunday at the close of an eight-mile chase of a stolen car in North Baltimore.

Richard H. Duvall Jr., father of two children, died shortly after he was brought to Union Memorial Hospital with a gun wound in the abdomen.

Police indicated Duvall may have been shot by another policeman. Police and witnesses gave this account:

A car resembling one reported stolen was spotted by a cruising police car at North and Park Avenues near the center of the city. Police chased the car as far as the northern city limits and then south again. As many as 18 police cars joined the chase.

The chase ended abruptly when the pursued car cracked up on Green Spring avenue in the northern part of the city. At least two suspects were captured.

Their identities were not revealed immediately.

Witnesses said Duvall was one of two officers grappling with one of the suspects. Suddenly shots rang out and Duvall slumped to the ground. He was rushed to the hospital where he died.

Convicted Strangler's Mother Found Strangled

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md. (AP) — A woman whose son has been sentenced to die was found strangled on her bed early Sunday, State Police reported.

Corp. Wallace R. Caldwell said Mrs. Eva Mae Brady, about 44, mother of John Leo Brady, apparently had been strangled with a small rope. Her body was found shortly after midnight at her home near Dunderberg in northern Calvert County.

John Leo Brady, 25, has been sentenced to be executed in the Maryland gas chamber the week of Jan. 26. He was sentenced Dec. 12 for the strangling of William Brooks, 53-year-old semi-invalid.

In Baltimore, Dr. Paul F. Guerin, assistant medical examiner who performed the autopsy on the woman gave a ruling of homicide.

Authorities said the woman's clothing was in a state of disarray. Guerin said a check was being made to determine whether she had been sexually attacked.

Corporal Caldwell said the woman's husband, John A. Brady, about 50, an employee of the D. C. Transit System Inc. of Washington, said he found the body when he returned from work.

Ice Still Slows All Bay Shipping

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ice, up to 18 inches thick, continued to plague all shipping in the Upper Chesapeake Bay Sunday.

"It's slowing up everything, regardless of size," the Coast Guard said.

Two large vessels and a number of smaller ones were ice-bound, one of the larger ships for the second time in two days.

The Coast Guard said the German ship, Maria Leonhardt, was ice-locked in the Turkey Point area. The tanker Marine Progress, got loose from the ice's grasp Saturday in the upper bay only to be stopped again off Tolchester Beach.

The Coast Guard said anything other than good size ocean-going vessels are having trouble.

The outlook was for somewhat warmer weather Monday but the Coast Guard said there would have to be a good bit of milder temperatures before the ice problem would melt away.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A ♠A6 ♠AK8432 ♠QJ3
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass Pass
Double Pass 2 ♠ Pass
What do you bid now?

A—Three no trump. True, partner has promised nothing since you forced him to bid, but possession of four diamonds will no doubt enable you to run the suit and a club lead at the favorable location of the king of spades would give you a ninth trick.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠AJ72 ♠KJ6 ♠AJ932
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass Pass
What do you bid now?

A—Pass. Although West's overall is preemptive, your partner was unable to compete freely and there is no safe course of action available to you. A pass—at least—is apt to produce a small profit.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠AQ3 ♠KQJ87 ♠3 ♠KQ87
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♠ Double Pass
1 ♠ Double ?
What do you bid now?

A—Four hearts. Your partner is most likely close to being broke since East has announced possession of a very good hand, so the burden of the bidding lies squarely on your shoulders. Since both the ace of clubs and the king of spades appear to be favorably located for your side, all partner requires is some fair distribution of the jack of clubs to make four hearts a virtual laydown.

Q. 4—Your side has an 80 part score and as South you hold:

♠KJ10643 ♠K92 ♠73 ♠AK10
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 3 ♠ 3 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A—Four spades. No serious thought should be given to bidding four hearts as that call could only serve to inflame an already stymied partner.

You had barely enough for your free bid and a simple rebid in your suit is called for at this point to slow down the pace.

Q. 5—Both sides vulnerable and

as South you hold:
♠Q65432 ♠J10 ♠A83 ♠32
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠
What do you bid now?

A—Three spades. No more drastic action than this could be justified on such a relatively balanced holding. Unless partner can proceed over three, no game will have been missed. A leap to game by you might invite a double that could prove surprisingly costly.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠A5432 ♠62 ♠10852 ♠73
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Double Pass ?
What do you bid?

A—Pass, for a sure profit. A double at this level, while it still may be taken out, should be passed with anything but a highly unbalanced holding. There is no guarantee that partner possesses a fit with the spades, so any offensive action by you would be highly speculative.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠6 ♠A983 ♠J63 ♠A1054
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A—Three diamonds. Your hand does not technically qualify for a second constructive bid. However, partner appears to have a very good diamond holding. On his rebid he skipped by spades, no trump, and clubs, and if he can stop spades, there may be nine tricks available in no trump.

Q. 8—Both sides vulnerable and

as South you hold:

♠AK109 ♠AQJ73 ♠9863
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♠ Double Pass
What do you bid now?

A—Pass. True you are void in clubs and that is always a deterrent against leaving a penalty double in but your defensive values, otherwise, are all of the gilt edged variety your partner will be counting on. His club holding figures to be pretty good, and you are well prepared to give the opposition a warm reception should they decide to run out to some other spot.

Your husband will find you more charming if you choose your words with care.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Six Little Words

All wives are charming. Of course they are — they charmed men into marrying them, didn't they? And most go on charming their husbands happily ever after. But some fail in some facet of charm without knowing they're failing. It seems to me that one fault is concerned with just six little words.

These words are my, our, I, we, me and us. There seems to be a contrast between the my, I, me users and the users of our, we, us. Does it ever sound right to a man when his wife refers to "my house, my living room, my new carpet?" Does he catch a fleeting impression of being the star boarder? How does he feel about family decisions "I" made when he was just as instrumental in making them? Or about hearing accounts of what happened to "me" instead of "us" when he was involved?

They're few, the men who jump through hoops to keep peace in the family, but even a man who is respected and not imposed upon sometimes isn't given all the consideration he'd like in some ways. If we were, he'd find these ways of being considered by you very winning. Let me suggest a few with these questions:

Do you always use the word "our" about your mutual possessions? About family projects? Does your husband really have his say about the house, and his share of it in masculine furnishings, storage space of his own, hobby room?

Do you always talk it over fully before starting a plan for the family — and never embark on it assuming that he'll go along? Is your husband always consulted about invitations that include both of you? Do you see as much of his favorite friends as of your own?

Do you always give him equal or more credit for the successes you make of your home and family, small and large, and make sure he knows it? And if the subject comes up, that others do, too?

TOMORROW: Allure of the Bath.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — A London call from Director Stanley Donen brings news that he has signed Kay Kendall to play opposite Yul Brynner in "Once More with Feeling." Stanley was very happy and told me that he believed that Harry Kurnitz had Kay in mind when he wrote the Broadway comedy. Stanley won't be coming back to Hollywood and will stay in London to make the picture which goes before the cameras the last of March.

Kay, of course, will play the Arlene Francis role, while Yul has been set for some weeks for the character Joseph Cotten created "Once More with Feeling" is being made for Donen's own company. I personally think Kay Kendall would be better in this than Ingrid Bergman, first rumored for the part.

Stanley said that he had spent Christmas with his wife, Marion Marshall, and their two children in Switzerland, but they were unable to reconcile, so Marion is bringing the children back to the U.S.A. There is no bitterness in the parting.

Joan Collins, back in town after a visit in Europe and New York, tells me that she has been talking to Walter Wanger about playing "Cleopatra."

"Ever since I was a little girl, Cleopatra has been my favorite character," Joan said, "and I'm reading the script now. I hope nothing will go wrong because I want so much to play the siren of the Nile."

The troubles Mickey Rooney had in 1958, particularly romantically, with his girlfriend attempting suicide, appear to be behind him—and 1959 dawns brightly for the Mick. He and Barbara Thomas (now a happy gal) admit they'll be married sometime this year — so all's well that ends well.

And Mickey has never had so many jobs coming his way. One of the most important deals had just been signed by Rooney and Red Doff, a co-production setup with Aubrey Schenck and Howard Koch for two films. The first will be "The Gravy Train" with a race track background.

Dinah Shore, who has played in Boston often and knows Cardinal Cushing, wrote him a letter when he was made a cardinal by Pope John XXIII. Cardinal Cushing has a great sense of humor, that gift which belongs to those blessed with Irish heritage, and he answered her letter.

Here is an excerpt: "The nuns who staff my household are known as sisters of St. Joan of Arc. They have a small and extremely modern statue of this saint in the rear of the chapel. People visiting the chapel see the statue and ask, 'Who is that?' I reply: 'That is Dinah Shore.'"

With all the honors heaped on Dinah this letter pleased her more than anything else, and she's had it framed.

The Cow Jumped Over The Moon

What goes up must come down. Or must it? Soviet—and some if not all American—scientists say that the cosmic rocket Mehta, having bypassed (or missed) the moon, will never fall back to earth. It is not for the layman to doubt that assertion. Apparently Lunik has settled down for a steady whirl around the sun.

That makes it another (if tiny) planet among those already orbiting in the solar system. How long will it orbit the sun? Nobody knows. A century of earth's time? Millions of centuries?

But it is possible that what goes up from earth must still come down—but not necessarily down here. The cow that finally did jump over the moon in 1959 will not go on high-tailing it forever through space even if it escapes collision with another body of matter out yonder.

The gravitation of far older, far larger bodies will continue to pull on Lunik from one direction or another. The man-made planet may yet fall down—if "down" is the right adverb—onto some other cosmic traveler in coming to a final smash-up.

Meanwhile it is a comfort to know that the apple thrown into the air will still fall back to earth like the apple that fell from the tree on Sir Isaac Newton nearly 300 years ago. Indeed, Sir Isaac himself would understand how Lunik goes streaking away, on and on toward the sun.

It was he who said in 1687 that all objects attract each other and that the force of their attraction depends on the sizes of the objects and the distance between them.

He Crossed The Picket Line

We have all heard what a sin it is to cross a picket line. Personally, I cross one all the time because I object to compulsion. I object to another guy telling me what I can or cannot do. But I never thought that I would see the day when Walter Reuther would cross a picket line and I have received telephone call after telephone call telling me of this astonishing event. I could not go to see it because I am still convalescent.

Of course, Reuther might defend himself by saying that it was not an authorized picket line but neither was his sit-down strike in 1936-37 authorized; yet it was that strike which moved him from a ranting soap-box Socialist to a labor leader and now he is a labor statesman and has an enormous voice in the affairs of the Democratic Party.

So, Walter Reuther crossed the picket line. It was to go to lunch with Anastas Mikoyan, not a luncheon arranged by the A.F.L.-C.I.O., as some reported, but by James Carey, another labor statesman with some pretensions of being anti-Communist. Carey tried to say that he gave the luncheon in honor of Mikoyan at the request of the State Department.

It would be interesting to know who in the State Department made such a request of Brother Carey, because inquiry does not disclose such a request at all. On the contrary, it is denied as against policy. George Meany, president of the A.F.L.-C.I.O. did not go to Carey's luncheon in honor of Mikoyan. Meany being a substantial citizen who hates Communists uncompromisingly. Also Meany dislikes dictators, tyrants, men who murder other men or who commit genocide. Walter Reuther apparently has no identical scruples.

Not only that but this was a picket line of Hungarians, Bulgarians and other slave people whose brothers had been murdered by Khrushchev and Mikoyan and their colleagues. The picket line was a protest against the butchery of these peoples. The refugees marched in protest against Mikoyan for the harm he did their people and they were duly dispersed by the police, although picket lines are supposed to be respected, nay, even revered by the police.

Perhaps it is different in Washington where foreigners have to be treated with kid gloves test they fail to love us or something.

One begins to wonder how impromptu the impromptu luncheons and dinners are that are suddenly sprouting in honor of the tourist Anastas Mikoyan. He came here to look around and he had no preparation, no agenda, no previous arrangements or understanding. He is given no formal reception of any kind but suddenly Eric Johnston and Jim Carey and Cyrus Eaton spring forward with obviously well-prepared parties. Fortunately no ticker-tape parade has been arranged in New York where there could be real trouble, considering the number of Hungarians, Poles, Czechs and even anti-Communist Armenians who live in this town. It must be that in other cities, the opposition has been pacified, although in Cleveland, a woman did throw a rock.

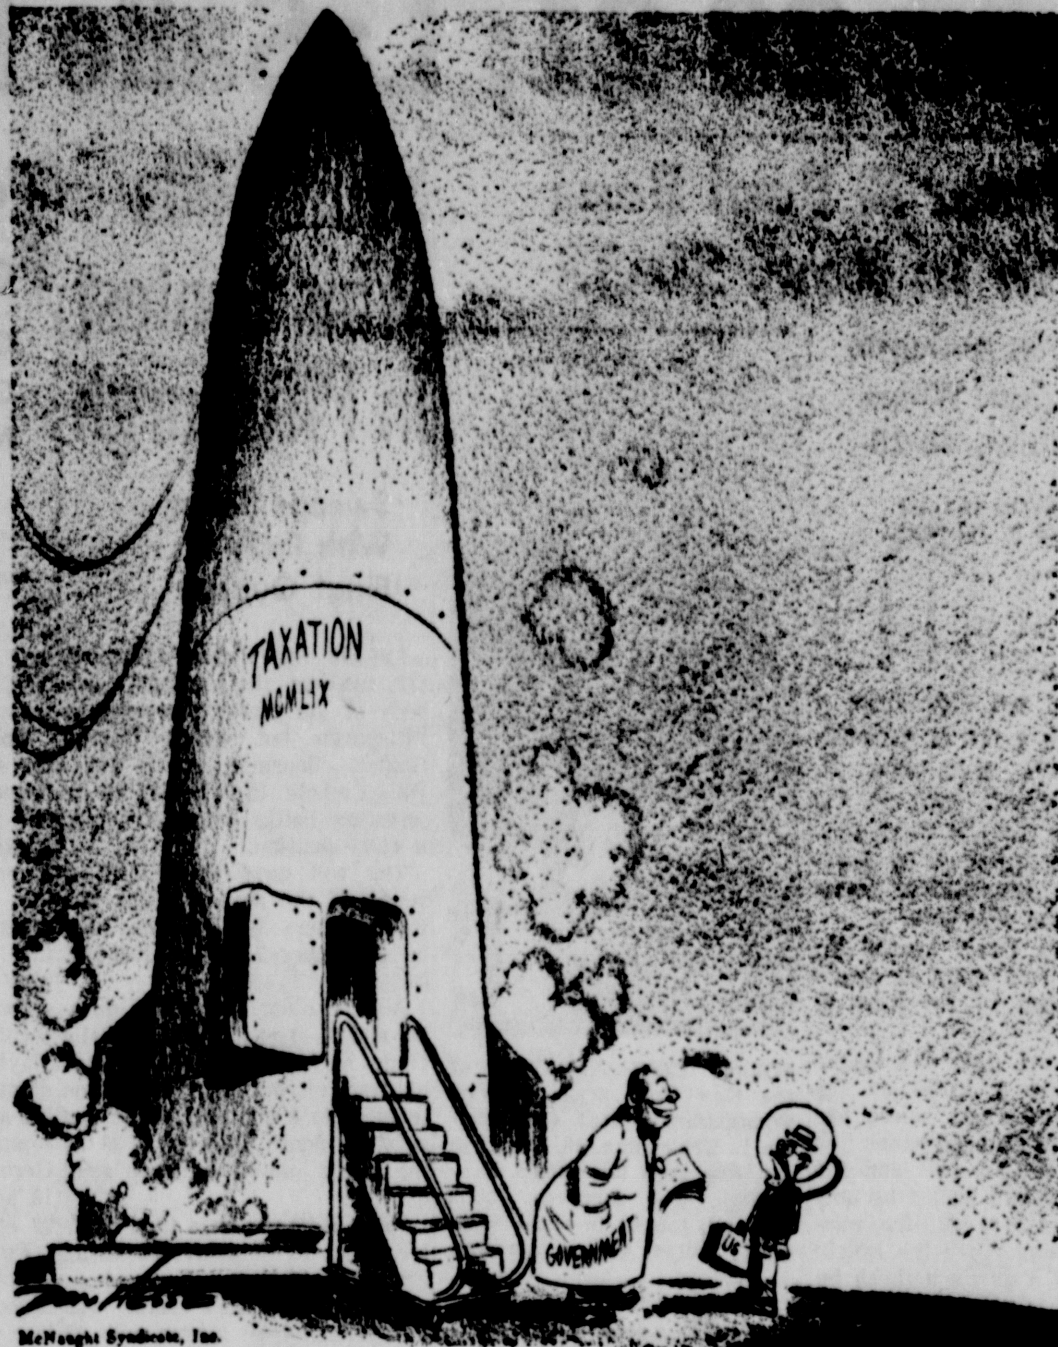

Anastas Mikoyan, the Armenian trader, might find some countrymen in New York who are not so happy about the fate of Armenia, just as there are people here from every country behind the Iron Curtain. It would be pretty hard for them to take this man as an honored guest and while he has thus far managed to evade the picket lines of those who have had to leave their homelands, the politicians and the labor statesmen who wine and dine this man will sooner or later have to face them.

And so one watches each day as it goes by. One watches Mikoyan make like an American candidate for local office who gives the little boy a stick of candy, and who goes into the supermarket to shake hands with anyone who will shake hands with him or who pretends to eat doughnuts dunked in coffee. Next he will kiss the babies—watch out for mononucleosis!

Of course, Mikoyan does not need votes and one wonders who set up this program and for what purpose. What are we being softened up for? Maybe, Mikoyan will go down to Texas and get one of those enormous hats and a string tie and make like an old-fashioned Senator. Who knows what can happen on this trip?

'Think We'll Put You Into Orbit This Time'

Republicans Not Alert To Battle Of Headlines

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — What the Republicans and Democrats in Congress have needed more than anything else is not a change in their leaders but a change in the attitude of their rank and file—a willingness to dedicate themselves to principle instead of yielding always to expediency.

This is asking a lot of the politician who depends for re-election on the ignorance of certain segments of the electorate or their supposed cupidity—favors granted or expected to be derived from other taxpayers' money.

The conflict, for instance, among the Republicans between the so-called "liberals" and the "conservatives," often referred to as the "old guard," is not what it appears to be on the surface. It is really a contest for individual prestige and power. One must search hard to find any single principle that motivates any large number in either group.

The ouster of Joe Martin from the Republican leadership in the House was not the result of any differences in ideology. Representative Halleck of Indiana is as much a conservative as former Speaker Martin. But there has been an undercurrent of dissatisfaction with the Republican situation in the House even among conservatives. They can't put their finger on the cause of it, but undoubtedly it is based on chagrin and disappointment over the severe defeat suffered in the last election. Perhaps it is the belated discovery that a party with no offense and simply a polite defense doesn't get anywhere in the battle ring of politics.

The Democrats as a minority party have been good on the offense. They have not been encumbered with the problems of the party in power in the White House. They have had a free hand to attack without worrying about defense tactics. They even haven't had to defend the Truman Administration which was repudiated at the polls in the election of 1952—in fact, they have managed recently to restore it almost to sainthood due to the way the Republicans muffed the defense of their party's record in connection with the Goldfine-Adams case.

In the last two years, the Democrats have made excellent use of the investigating machinery from a political standpoint. They have attacked the Republicans for influencing the federal agencies but have managed to squelch any reprimand of the Democratic members of Congress who brazenly interferred and used influence with the federal agencies in behalf of their constituents. Even the code of ethics recently announced by a Democratic-controlled committee exempts Congressmen and Senators from the same ethical obligations as would be imposed on officials of the federal agencies themselves. Yet the laws of the land say that the person who gives or attempts to give a bribe is as guilty of a crime as the official who receives it.

The Democrats, in the last two years, have done a very effective job of smearing the Eisenhower Administration, especially in foreign affairs. Day after day has passed without any Republican defense or counterattack. It is this daily publicity that forms the prejudices of the electorate long before the three months of any election campaign.

According to a Berlin dispatch from the United Press International, the crisis in Berlin is related to a misconception in Moscow over the defeat of the Republicans in the last election. It has been assumed in the Kremlin that the American people repudiated the Eisenhower leadership and that the Democrats are more friendly to Communist policies. This is an example of how attacks by the Democrats on the Administration foreign policy have given an impression damaging to America abroad. The Republicans have done little to rebut these attacks, as they are not alert in the battle of the headlines.

Today the Republican Party has a great chance for public service. It cannot win elections by dissension in its ranks. It must unite on basic principles that conservatives and liberals can agree upon, instead of chasing Democratic rainbows. The fundamental principles of sound and honest government are not difficult to set forth. Chief among the planks—and the party might well formulate a platform for this Congress—should be the protection of the dollar against those who would raid the Federal Treasury. Another plank needed is on the protection of the public interest against strikes that damage the community. Some form of compulsory arbitration and the espousal of individual rights inside and outside unions are more pressing than some of the side issues in which the politicians become absorbed nowadays. Important as "civil rights" are to every section of the country where voting is concerned, just as important are the "civil rights" of the citizen who must today in most states accept a form of labor-union slavery as the price of a job in free America.

The worker has lost his "civil rights," but there seems to be little worry about it in Congress. Racketeering in unions still flourishes. It is a time for members of Congress to dedicate themselves to principle, with less and less emphasis on personal ambitions. (Copyright, 1959 New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

In the future it is unlikely anyone will have to go to war. They're setting up a delivery system.

The next war will be mostly scientific. Maybe even the living end.

Don't Blame The Menopause For Everything

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

How long should the menopause last? Less than 18 months, according to chemical studies done on the secretion of sex hormones. This should be the most accurate test, because the change of life represents the period when the ovaries "dry up" and become inactive.

The situation is different when symptoms such as nausea, hot flashes, sweating, flushing, nervousness, and headache are used as the criteria in diagnosis. These manifestations may be noted a decade or two before the climacteric begins and may last many years after menstruation stops.

Hot flashes are so common among women at this time of life that the glandular state must play a role. But there are other causes, hence flashes should not be blamed on the menopause when they occur in young and older women.

It is unfair to charge the change of life with responsibility for nausea, nervousness, headache, sweating, and flushing just because a woman is nearing her forties. The physician who does this is using the climacteric as a diagnostic wastebasket. It aggravates the emotional aspect and may have serious implications when hormones are given, especially when the woman has another 10 years to go before the real menopause begins.

Some of the reasons why women become emotionally upset at this time are based on old wives' tales that involve sex, appearance, and personality. Many persons develop these symptoms whenever they become angry, peeved, embarrassed, or excited.

It is a paradox that they should be blamed on the nervous system at one time of life but on the menopause when they occur in women in their forties. Furthermore, these symptoms are relieved more effectively with sedatives and tranquilizers than with the hormones that counteract the true menopause.

TOMORROW: Electrocardiogram tracings.

PUFFY ANKLES

L. W. writes: What are the serious and the nonsensical causes of swelling of the ankles?

REPLY The most serious origins are heart, kidney, and liver failure. The symptom also develops as a result of starvation, because of a marked deficiency of proteins. Inflammation of veins or lymph passages is a serious cause but usually only one extremity is involved. Benign causes include standing or sitting too long; those who travel across the continent by train or abroad in a trans-Atlantic flight often said the actor. "He's my agent."

Income Tax Case Was Fixed After Treasury Had Urged Prosecution

By Drew Pearson

by the Treasury and sent to Justice for prosecution, it is considered airtight. Rarely does the Justice Department refuse to carry out a Treasury recommendation.

Truman's Men Prosecuted

When Lamar Caudle, in charge of the Justice Department's tax division under Truman, agreed to a guilty plea from Irving Sachs of St. Louis instead of prosecuting him, he and Mait Connelly, Truman's appointments secretary, were prosecuted by the Eisenhower administration. Connelly received two suits and an overcoat from Sachs' attorney. Government attorneys admitted in court that Caudle received nothing. The two are still being prosecuted.

But the political associates of ex-Gov. Gordon Persons had their case killed somewhere at the top. Internal Revenue submitted the case to the Justice Department on December 15, 1957. For several weeks backstage conferences ensued in Washington. Then on March 10, 1958, Joseph M. Howard, chief of the Justice Department's tax division's criminal section, wrote a two-page letter to Internal Revenue refusing to prosecute the case.

The regional office of Internal Revenue in Atlanta promptly protested.

It had investigated the case inside and out, and demanded prosecution.

This made no difference. "No prosecution" was the final word of the Justice Department.

However, this column has done its own investigating and here-with presents the facts so the public can decide for itself.

After Persons became Governor in 1950, he appointed Jimmy Thrower, ex-Mayor of Dothan, to the ABC liquor board which rules on what liquor shall be sold in the state of Alabama. Thrower worked with Emory Solomon, who was one of Persons' leaders in the Alabama Legislature. And since the ABC liquor board can ban arbitrarily any brand of liquor from the state, the big liquor distributors not only flooded them with free liquor, but in this case paid political tribute through front men.

Secret Bank Accounts

Jimmy Thrower, working with Governor Persons' political henchman, proceeded to set up a network of friends and relatives as "company representatives." For the most part their salaries were paid over to Thrower and Solomon. Some checks were mailed direct to P. O. Box 236 in Dothan, the ex-mayor's post office box.

Other money was deposited in the Headland National Bank partly owned by Solomon's brother, D. G. "Gib" Solomon.

What added to the conspiracy which tax agents uncovered was the fact that the money was deposited by Thrower in the names of the front men, who never knew they had the bank accounts. Since the money was both deposited and withdrawn without their knowledge, presumably their signatures had to be forged.

Gib Solomon admitted he had set up the bank accounts for Thrower, but claimed it was a common procedure in a country bank.

"Seventy-five per cent of our deposits are by other people," he claimed. "So many people don't write their names. Many depend on others to do their business for them."

This is just part of the amazing story of how certain big liquor companies funneled an estimated quarter of a million dollars down to Alabama as payoffs for having their brands sold in Alabama, and how the recipients, after failing to pay income taxes on the money, got their tax case fixed in Washington.

The remainder of the story, with a roll call of those involved, and the explanation of ex-Governor Persons, will follow in an early column.

Senate squibs

Ohio's silvery-haired John Bricker was the first lame duck Senator to vacate his office. He cheerfully turned it over to the Democrat who defeated him, Sen. Steve Young. . . Indiana's newly elected Sen. Vance Hartke had to wait a long time for office space. Retiring Sen. Bill Jenner announced months ago that he was retiring — but he wouldn't move out until the day before the deadline. . . Nevada's genial "Molly" Malone was the last lame duck Senator to pack his cowboy boots and give up his Senate office. Despite appeals to move out and make way for the new arrivals, Malone refused to budge from his office until the last legal minute. He made no effort to help his staff find new jobs. . . In contrast, outgoing Senators Arthur Watkins of Utah and Frank Barrett of Wyoming spent hours on the phone seeking new employment for their staff members.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

"Retire and live in Florida cheap. . ." "You've seen the ads. What is it like to try it? Here's one answer:

On the edge of the Atlantic Ocean, halfway between Miami and Palm Beach, is a new community called Pompano Beach Highlands. A mile back from the beach is Northeast 33d St. There is a white one-story house at 1861. Inside the front door are Bertha and E. Edwards May.

They are good-looking. She wears a cotton print dress and has a plump figure and a little gray in her hair. When she is perplexed, she fingers the small pearls on her neck. Her skin is tan and little vertical lines are on her upper lip. She is 74.

Elias Edwards May is also 74. He has lost some hair, but he has made it up with a sunny smile and molasses skin. He wears blue slacks and a wild sports shirt. Once upon a long ago, he was foreman of a maintenance gang on the Pennsylvania Railroad. He and Bertha and their only child, Ann Katherine, lived in Pittsburgh.

He never earned much money. And, when he retired in 1953, he earned less. The pension plus Social Security comes to $187.50 a month. The Mays are hardly rich. But they took the plunge and decided to live as the ads say. They had no further responsibilities. Anna Katherine was now Mrs. Anderson of Cleveland. She had a grown son who wanted to be a U.S. Marine and two growing daughters.

The Mays drove down to take a look. They looked in St. Petersburg and Fort Myers and Miami and Daytona. On May 1, 1955, they bought this white house at Pompano Beach Highlands. The total cost was $6,790. They paid $72 closing costs. The down payment was $290. In spite of their advanced age, they got a 25-year mortgage and they pay $45.50 per month.

They negotiated the deal with the General Development Corporation and they asked the man why they were allowed a 25-year mortgage when their life expectancy is less. The man said (1) because we have found that, if you and your husband pass on, children want to take over the house rather than let it go; (2) property values are rising in Florida and we can't get stuck; (3) you will find that 80 per cent of your neighbors are retired folks from the north, and we have found them to be a good investment. They are neater and cleaner with property than younger couples.

Mr. May looked around his little house. "How do I like it, Mister?" he said to me. "I wouldn't sell it for three times what I paid for it." Mrs. May fingered her beads. "For us," she said, "this is the happiest part of our life. We have no more tensions; no responsibilities; our future is taken care of. The super-market is a block and a half away. We visit our neighbors a lot. They come here often. We get along."

The house is made of cinder block with a stucco finish. There is no cellar. The pink living room adjoins a breakfast nook with glass top table and chairs with black iron legs. The kitchen is tiny; the cabinets are white.

There are three bedrooms. One of the guest rooms has a desk and a convertible couch. A second one has a double bed and a picture of a grandson who is now a Marine. The third has twin beds. "I made those leather headboards," Mr. May says. "I have a little work bench in the car port." In the hall, he shows a shelf hidden in a wall. "This is for Mrs. May's sewing machine. I made this too."

She plants. Out front she has three coconut palm trees. In the back, a holly tree grows. They grow their own oranges and grapefruit on the property, which measures 75 feet by 100. Also some oleander, bougainvillea, almander and lilies. "The lilies came out last Easter by accident," Mrs. May says. "Sixteen. All white."

They have a 1956 Oldsmobile Holiday. When the Mays want to see the sights, Palm Beach is 35 miles north, Miami is 35 miles south. They spend most of their time looking at television or visiting. For the chilly nights, there is a gas heater in the wall which turns on automatically. They mind their pennies and spend carefully. It isn't easy. It isn't difficult.

They were surprised to find that Dade County grants $5,000 off on the value of a home for permanent residents. This left $1,790 for tax purposes. The county assesses at 40 per cent of that. Mr. May's tax bill for 1958 was incredible: 30 cents.

Behind the front door hang harness sleigh bells. They were owned by Mr. May's father a hundred years ago. When I opened the door, they jingled. They sounded just as merry as they did a century ago. . .

Van Brocklin Passes Help Defeat West

Los Angeles Tilt Draws 72,250 Fans; Gifford Voted MVP

By ALEX KAHN

United Press International

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Norman Van Brocklin showed his former Los Angeles fans he still had the rifle arm that made him famous as he led the Eastern Conference all stars to a 28-21 victory over the Western all stars in the ninth annual Pro Bowl football game before 72,250 excited fans.

Held in check for most of the game, Van Brocklin finally found the target for his passes in the final few minutes of the game in Memorial Coliseum, passing to end Palmer Retzlaff with the winning touchdown.

Until that final 70-yard drive, Bill Wade, who took over in 1958 as Los Angeles Ram quarterback for Van Brocklin, was the game's outstanding player by throwing for one touchdown and running for another.

Gifford Voted MVP

But it was the old pro, Frank Gifford of the New York Giants,

Doug Atkins, of the West squad and the Chicago Bears, was selected the outstanding lineman in the game.

Van Brocklin could have been the "goal" of the game as on the very first play from scrimmage he threw the ball into the arms of Yale Lary of the Detroit Lions, who returned it 17 yards. A 37-yard dash by Lenny Moore of the Baltimore Colts put the ball on the one, from where Baltimore's Alan Ameche scored easily.

Gifford Sparks Drives

Gifford got started with his passing in the same period, helping set up the first of Lou Groza's two field goals from 25 yards and in the same opening period threw a pass to Giant teammate Alex Webster, good for 40 yards and a touchdown.

But the East 9-7 lead was short-lived as Wade replaced the somewhat ineffective Johnny Unitas and sparked the West 73 yards to a score, with Hugh McElhenny taking a 20 yard pass for the tally.

The East did not give easily as Eddie LeBaron took over for Van Brocklin in the second period, and alternating with Gifford, he led the team 74 yards for a score, passing to Gern Nagler for the touchdown to leave the East with a 16-14 halftime lead.

Wade came back into the game in the third period when Unitas was hurt and he drove the West 90 yards, rushing the final 10 when he found no receiver open.

Scott Scores Safety

Then came the big fourth quarter as Groza got his second field goal to narrow the West's margin to two points, 21-19, and then in came Van Brocklin. The Philadelphia Eagle ace hit Gifford for 23, Nagler for 13 and Retzlaff for 15 and the score. The East added two more points when Tom Scott tackled McElhenny in the end zone for a safety.

It was the East's fourth win against five West wins and it was their first victory in three years.

Gifford statistically completed three out of five passes for 75 yards and one touchdown, caught three passes for 54 yards and made 12 yards rushing. Wade was the leading passer with 12 completions on 18 attempts for 115 yards.

In addition to Atkins, outstanding linemen for the West included his teammate Bill George of the Bears, and Les Richter of the Rams. For the East, Dick Lane of the Chicago Cardinals, Don Paul of the Cleveland Browns, Ernie Stautner of Pittsburgh Steelers, and Scott were brilliant.

The attendance was a new Pro Bowl record, surpassing last year's previous record of 66,634.

Deadlocked At 205 At End Third Round

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—It was still a dead heat between United States Open Champion Tommy Bolt and Ernie Vossler of Texas after the third round of the $20,000 Tijuana Open Golf Tournament late Sunday.

The two started out on even terms, with a 36-hole score of 134 and wound up still deadlocked at 205 after carving out one-under-par 71s.

The 39-year-old Bolt, who plays out of Crystal River, Fla., and the 30-year-old Vossler from Midland, Tex., go into the final round Monday with a one-stroke lead over handsome Jay Hebert of Sanford, Ore., and 23-year-old John McMullin of Alameda, Calif.

London Defends Title Tonight

By The Associated Press
Brian London defends the British heavyweight title that his father once held, in a major bout with Henry Cooper of England at London's Earl's Court Stadium Monday night.

As there is a chance that Floyd Patterson may risk his world championship against the winner—or Sweden's Ingemar Johansson—during the summer, the bout is of unusual interest in the United States.

London, 23, is a slight favorite over the challenger who stopped him on a technical knockout in one round, May 1, 1956.

Turley And Triandos Also To Be Honored

BALTIMORE (AP)—A diamond studded gold crown will be presented to Chicago Cub Shortstop Ernie Banks at the sixth annual "Tops in Sports" banquet here Monday night.

Other sports figures also will be honored.

Banks banged out 47 homers last season to set an all-time record for major league shortstops. He was voted the National League's most valuable player of 1958.

The 27-year-old infielder also led the majors in runs batted in with 129 and total bases with 379. He hit .313.

He was picked for the "Sultan of Swat" crown honor by the Maryland Professional Baseball Players Assn.

Pitcher Bob Turley, mainstay of the Yankees in their come-from-behind World Series win over Milwaukee, also will be honored, as will Baltimore Orioles Catcher Gus Triandos.

Turley will be honored by the association as the outstanding major league pitcher and Triandos as the most valuable Oriole of 1958.

Other baseball personalities to be on hand include Rocky Colavito and Mickey Vernon of the Cleveland Indians.

Gimeno Of Spain Upsets Buchholz

PERTH, Australia (UPI)—Andres Gimeno of Spain spoiled Earl Buchholz's bid for a sweep of the men's singles titles in the West Australian tennis tournament Sunday when he scored a surprising 6-1, 6-4, 6-3 victory in the finals of the men's senior competition.

It was the first senior title ever won by the 18-year-old Gimeno who reached the final round when Alex Olmedo, the 22-year-old Peruvian hero of the U.S. Davis Cup victory over Australia, withdrew from the tournament because of stomach trouble.

Buchholz, an 18-year-old crew-cut who beat Luis Arilla of Spain for the junior title on Saturday, was bothered by gusty winds funneling between the Royals Kings Park Stadium and gave the poorest exhibition of his Australian tour.

Principles Of Leftovers
When planning to use cooked meat in a second-day dish, make sure that meat is well wrapped so as to retain its moisture. An idea in this type of recipe would be stuffed green peppers. Simply combine finely chopped cooked beef with rice or mashed or diced potatoes and seasonings and place in green pepper shells. Cook until peppers are tender and meat mixture lightly browned.

At The Race Tracks

Racing To Resume At Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) — There will be racing Monday at Charles Town race track forced to suspend operations on a frozen strip Saturday.

A spokesman said Sunday the condition of the track was exemplary and there definitely would be racing.

The rest of Saturday's card was called off after four jockeys were hurt in the third race. It was the second major spill of the week.

Sheriff Muir To Quit Post

EDWARD R. MUIR

Sanitarians May Be Moved To Union St.

Request To Be Made Tomorrow

A former request for permission for the Sanitation Department of the Allegany County Health Department to use a large first-floor room at the Union Street County Building will be made at the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday morning.

John J. Rowan, president of the county commissioners, said last night that the move meets with his approval, so long as the other commissioners also agree.

Dr. Ton van Strien, director of the County Health Department, and J. B. Dowling, chief sanitarian, are expected to attend the commissioners' meeting tomorrow morning to request permission to move from crowded quarters in the Public Safety Building.

There are five sanitarians in the department which would be moved to Union Street under this proposal. The room in question now is supposed to be used as a training center for the Health Department. However, it is used in that capacity only about once a month.

During the annual County United Fund campaign this room is used as campaign headquarters. Just before Christmas, members of the Junior Woman's Civic Club set up a baby sitting service for shopping mothers there.

The county delegation to the General Assembly in Annapolis often has held meetings with various interested groups and individuals there.

Mr. Rowan said the move is being proposed to provide Dr. David E. Edwards, director of the mental health program, additional space in the Public Service Building for clinics.

Two Are Hurt As Cars Crash

A Fort Ashby, W. Va., woman and her 20-month-old son were admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday with injuries sustained in a two-car collision near Fort Ashby on West Virginia State Route 46.

Mrs. Beverly Troutman, wife of James Troutman, was admitted for observation. Her son, David, suffered a fractured left leg. His condition is good, attaches said.

West Virginia State Police said the collision occurred about 4:45 p. m. yesterday about a mile west of Fort Ashby.

Trooper C. C. Oliver said that Mrs. Troutman was driving her husband's car in the direction of Keyser and was attempting a left turn off the main highway.

The trooper said that a car being operated by Leonard Llewellyn, 32, of Wiley Ford, rammed into the left side of the Troutman car.

He was charged with the violation of a state motor vehicle law and is lodged in the Mineral County Jail pending a hearing. Trooper Oliver said.

The mother and son were taken to the local hospital in an ambulance. A daughter, Sharon, was not hurt, police said.

Fire Destroys Frame House At Bean's Cove

Rubys Lose $700 In Early Blaze

The six-room frame house at Bean's Cove, Pa., was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning and the elderly couple living there lost nearly all of their possessions including $700 in cash.

Flintstone Fire Chief Cleo Helmick said that his department did not get a call on the fire until about an hour and 15 minutes after the blaze was discovered. Then he and 14 other volunteer firemen had to travel about 12 miles to reach the scene of the fire across the Mason-Dixon Line in Pennsylvania. There is no Pennsylvania fire company in that area.

The house was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Ruby. Mrs. Ruby discovered the fire, which apparently started in a flue, about 5 a. m. yesterday. Her husband, who was asleep at the time, was almost overcome by fumes before he could be aroused. Chief Helmick said.

Ironically, Mr. Ruby had worked many years in a fire tower in Bedford County spotting fires in time to save dwellings from being destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruby managed to save only the clothes they were wearing, three frame chairs and a little bed clothing. The $700 in cash also went up in smoke.

The fire call was delayed because the Rubys, who are advanced in years, have no phone. A neighbor who spotted the blaze was driving by stopped at the Ralph McElfish home nearby and called the Flintstone firemen. It was 6:15 a. m. then.

Chief Helmick said the volunteers remained on the scene more than three hours to keep the blaze from moving to a nearby barn and several other outbuildings. Wind carried the flames some 500 yards to some brush. It was 10 a. m. when they got back to the fire hall.

A second Sunday morning call came to the Flintstone firemen at 11 a. m. A brush fire burned over about three acres on the Mallow farm next to the Girl Scout camp on the Flintstone Creek Road. That blaze, some two miles from Flintstone, also was over the line in Pennsylvania.

In 1938 he began working for the Cumberland Evening Times. Mr. Boley, who is still active, retired as a printer on June 7, 1948.

Mr. Ways has been employed as a printer for the Cumberland Evening Times since he joined Local 244 some 40 years ago.

Increase In W.Va. Hunting, Fishing Fees To Be Sought

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Conservation Commission is preparing statistics for the Democratic leadership of the Legislature which plans to propose an increase in West Virginia hunting and fishing license fees.

The figures show that only two states charge smaller fees than the $3.15 paid by West Virginians for a combined license.

Louisiana charges $3 and Alaska $2, leaving West Virginia 47th on the list. The highest fee is $16 charged by neighboring Kentucky and is followed in order by New Mexico at $14 and Iowa at $13.50.

Eleven of the 49 states charge $10 or more annually for hunting and fishing licenses while 27 others charge between $5 and $10. Only 11 have fees of $5 or less. The Democratic leadership has suggested an increase in fees to provide additional money for building picnic areas, small parks, and leasing of land for public hunting areas.

Blood Rushed To Injured Grant Co. Girl

WASHINGTON (AP)—An emergency shipment of a rare type of blood was rushed by plane to Petersburg, W. Va. Sunday night to help a 13-year-old girl thought to have a ruptured spleen. She was reported injured when hit with a volleyball at play.

The blood shipment was made by the American Red Cross with the co-operation of the Civil Air Patrol.

Two planes and two shipments were involved because inadvertently the first CAP plane was dispatched to Petersburg, Va., instead of to the West Virginia city. But the Red Cross said the blood shipment which finally reached Grant Memorial Hospital in Petersburg, W. Va. was but slightly delayed.

Red Cross officials praised the CAP for fast work in the emergency.

Earlier in the evening the Red Cross Blood Center here got a call from the West Virginia hospital asking for a shipment of "AB" positive blood, a very rare type.

The blood center had the needed type and with the cooperation of U. S. Park Police it was rushed to nearby Beacon Field, below Alexandria, Va.

The CAP pilot took off for Petersburg, Va., and got down there before the dispatcher realized he was going to the wrong Petersburg, the Red Cross reported.

The CAP dispatcher quickly notified the blood center here, another shipment of the rare blood was available and again police escorted it to the Beacon air field.

The CAP had a fast plane ready and the shipment was reported to have reached the hospital about 8 p. m.

The blood shipment which had been en route first was returned to Washington, and since it was refrigerated, was returned to storage here.

Legislators Begin Move To Restore Funds

Lawmakers To Start Long Session Today

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Leaders of the Maryland Legislature, buffeted by waves of criticism for its opening-day move to boost the expense allowances of its members, are scheduled to map out a "put the money back" move Monday.

Speaker Perry O. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges) said he will confer on the plan with Majority Leader A. Gordon Boone (D-Balto County) and other leaders before the House resumes business in an evening session.

The discussion, Wilkinson indicated, will center on the mechanics of rescinding the order by which the delegates voted themselves a $10 increase in their former $20-a-day expense allowance.

Boone Was Author

Coming shortly after the opening of the 90-day session last Wednesday, the move touched off a storm of criticism throughout the state. Governor-elect Tawes made his displeasure known in a paternal talk with Boone, the acknowledged originator of the move, and other House chieftains. Hyman A. Pressman, the Baltimore lawyer who's made a hobby of such things, threatened to file a taxpayer's suit to force the delegates to retreat to their $20-a-day standard.

Newspaper editorials and letters to the editors were severely critical of the unexpected boost.

Even most delegates acknowledged they were unaware of the change in the usually routine expense-allowance order until it was announced, approved without debate or roll call, and declared in effect.

Senate May Rescind

There was little distinction, in most discussions, between the House official action and the Senate's informal, secret-session vote several hours later to follow suit.

Senate President George W. Delia (D-Balto 6th) later said, however, he was convinced enough votes could be changed to prevent the Senate action from becoming official this week.

With 153 members each drawing $10 a day more while the Legislature is in session, this would be the net effect of the expense-allowance boost, if allowed to stand.

1. A $137,000 drain on the surplus which Tawes hopes to use in balancing his budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

2. A $45,900 increase in legislative expenses for next year's 30-day session.

Tawes Displeased

Tawes, who has preached economy to his department heads since his election last fall, made clear he was displeased by the picture. With Democrats in firmer-than-ever control of the Legislature, and with Tawes in position to exercise firmer-than-ever control of Democrats because of his landslide victory in November, few observers expected the increased expense allowances to remain in effect.

Wilkinson said he had conferred with the governor-elect and his fellow party leaders three days after the Wednesday adjournment to work out committee assignments.

"I received a lot of calls from members of the Legislature all over the state about these committee assignments since we adjourned," he said, "and in almost every case, the caller also discussed the expense allowance order, with a good majority of them saying they thought it advisable to rescind the order."

The committee assignments are also scheduled to be announced Monday night.

Then the lawmakers can settle down to work.
